

12.3_A

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in a research report conduct
data discussion findings implication interview interviewee interviewer limitation method questionnaire random recommendation research question respondent
results sample survey undertake

12.3_A Answers

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in a research report
conduct /kən'dʌkt/	v [T]	do (some research, a survey, an experiment) data /'deɪtə/	n pl.	information; can be numerical (quantitative) or textual (qualitative) discussion /dɪ'skʌʃn/	n [C/U]	the title of the section in a research report which discusses the findings; sometimes the discussion is included in the Findings/Results section findings /'faɪndɪŋz/	n pl.	the title of the section in a research report which details what has been found out; each finding should be linked with a research question; the title Results can also be used for this section implication /,ɪmplɪ'keɪʃn/	n [C]	possible result of the findings, or a conclusion to be drawn from the findings interview /'ɪntəvjuː/	n [C] v [T/I]	when someone is asked questions in a survey to ask someone questions in a survey interviewee /,ɪntəvjuː'iː/	n [C]	the person being questioned interviewer /'ɪntəvjuːə(r)/	n [C]	the person asking the questions limitation /,lɪmɪ'teɪʃn/	n [C]	a problem with the research methods; an aspect of the topic which the research could not address method /'meθəd/	n [C]	title of the section in a research report which explains how the research was carried out; in the plural it refers to the research methods used questionnaire /,kwestʃə'neə(r)/	n [C]	a written set of questions random /'rændəm/	adj	in no fixed order; with no organizing principle recommendation /,rekəmen'deɪʃn/	n [C]	suggestion for action as a result of the findings of the research research question /rɪ'sɜːtʃ ,kwestʃən/	n [C]	what the researcher wants to find out respondent /rɪ'spɒndənt/	n [C]	a person taking part in a questionnaire survey results /rɪ'zʌlts/	n pl.	same as findings ; used more or less interchangeably

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in a research report
sample /'sɑ:mpl/	n [C] v [T]	the group of people taking part in the research to question part of a group of people to find out about the whole survey /'sɜ:veɪ/ /sə'veɪ/	n [C] v [T]	a type of research in which the researcher sets out to describe a situation or set of ideas or behaviours by reading a variety of documents or asking people questions to ask people questions undertake /ʌndə'teɪk/	v [T]	do (some research, a survey); similar meaning to conduct